

RELEVANT INFORMATION

Bogotá D.C., 22 February 2016. The Board of Directors of Transportadora de Gas Internacional (TGI) S.A., ESP, affiliate of Empresa de Energía de Bogotá (EEB), appointed Julian García Salcedo, a civil engineer, as its new President.

Mr. García is a civil engineering undergraduate from Universidad de Los Andes, and holds graduate degrees in Civil Engineering (Hydraulic Resources) from Colorado State University (USA), an MBA from Birmingham University (UK) and a masters' in Economics from Universidad de los Andes. In addition to 30 years of experience in the oil and gas industry.

His experience includes diverse disciplines that encompass areas such as top management, operations, commercial, planning, portfolio management, development of new businesses and State policies. TGI's new president has been president of the following companies in Colombia: Gran Tierra Inc (oil company listed in NY and Toronto), Emerald Energy Plc (oil company listed in London), Gold Oil Plc (oil company listed in London) and Carboandes (private mining company). He was the first technical director of ANH (National Hydrocarbons Agency) in charge of leading development and implementing the new oil regime in the country during 2004.

Prior to the foregoing positions, Mr. García worked in BP Colombia for ten years and other international assignments and four years in Ecopetrol, occupying managerial positions in both companies. An expert in hydrocarbons at the Energy National Commission (today known as CREG) and chief of the division for non-renewable natural resources. From the onset of his career, he has worked in energy and engineering consulting firms. Mr. Garcia has a proven track record in the development of businesses, growing companies and successfully leading multidisciplinary teams.